

CHASING ★ LIBERTY

1. When Anna bursts into the Oval Office, what upcoming event is the President discussing with his advisors?
2. What city and country is that event located?
3. Where does Anna want to make a side trip to when accompanying the President at that event?
4. In the brief montage of pictures of that city when the President arrives, what is a noticeable feature of the buildings in this city that you notice?
5. When Anna makes a run for it after visiting the club, what two distinguishable features of the city streets make them different from North American cities?
6. Anna wants to swim in the Danube but river actually flows through this city?
7. What does Anna want to see better that makes her climb onto the rooftops?
8. Where is this being shown? Do these types of areas exist in North America?
9. Anna and Ben jump onto a train to head to the "side trip" destination mentioned in question #3. In which direction should the train be heading?
10. Instead, Anna and Ben end up heading in the opposite direction towards which city?
11. What country do they have to travel through before they reach that city?
12. What mode of transportation would normally be used in North America to cover these kinds of distances?
13. What is the most overwhelming feature of this new city that they end up in?
14. After Anna and Ben have eluded the wait staff, what touristy ride do they take when acting as newlyweds?
15. A man drives Anna and Ben to the border of that country, but what is different about the border itself from "normal" national boundaries?
16. Why is the border different at this location?
17. After Anna goes to college for awhile, she explores the option of going to school where?

